Good Morning

We need to start bracing for Tropical Cyclone Nine headed to the Florida Panhandle.

NWS:

- Could become a major hurricane Thursday evening moving through Georgia into Friday.
- We can expect rainfall starting Wednesday afternoon.
- Widespread heavy rainfall Thursday night through Friday morning, expect 6 to 8 inches of rain for our area.
- Expect strong wind gusts of 35 to 45 mph Thursday night into Friday morning. (tree damage, power outages)

The most concerning is the fact that the Department of Environmental Services (formerly DHEC)sent all Dam owners in the County a READYOP message: “clear spillways, monitor water levels and review your emergency action plans”

Updates to follow as the storm progresses.

Thank you

Denise
