Good evening.

Crews continue to make steady progress replacing damaged equipment and restoring power to customers across the service area. In many cases, crews are not just replacing poles, but essentially rebuilding large sections of distribution infrastructure. This is hard work that takes time, but it is yielding positive results.

- The flow of additional resources allocated to the area that started to arrive in advance of the storm last week continues.
- As we continue to make progress on our assessments, we'll keep updating estimated times of restoration for our customers. We expect to have the majority of our customers restored no later than Friday.
- We continue working with state local officials to reach areas where accessibility has been a challenge. We're using every resource available - including helicopters, drones and track vehicles - to assess damages and continue our restoration.

Outage Status by County:

Abbeville – 1,139

Anderson – 57,486

Oconee – 4,992

Pickens – 14,478

Other nearby Counites:

Greenville – 162,029

Spartanburg – 125,394

While much progress has been made, this snapshot of the current outage map shows the scope of the work that still lies ahead in the area.

-Trent
