From: Route Fifty on behalf of Route Fifty <news@e.routefifty.com>
To: Robert Halfacre
Subject: States, tribes get $1.5 billion to fight the opioid epidemic; Plus: New York City Mayor Eric Adams indicted
Date: Friday, September 27, 2024 7:00:51 AM

Problems viewing? View as a web page

Route Fifty Today

Connecting state and local government leaders

Friday, September 27, 2024

Paul Weaver/SOPA Images/LightRocket via Getty Images

States, tribes get $1.5 billion to fight the opioid epidemic

By Kaitlyn Levinson | The federal funds will support substance use prevention and treatment efforts, workforce capacity building and access to medications to reduce addiction.

Prosecutors say New York City Mayor Eric Adams' corruption went global

By Daniel C. Vock | With Thursday's indictment, Adams joins a short list of mayors facing criminal charges while in office, but the charges against him are extraordinary in their reach.

Six months later, what did cities learn from the solar eclipse? Plan, plan, plan.

By Chris Teale | Communities in the path of totality look back at the lessons learned. Preparing for the worst and biggest impacts is worth it, they say.

Did someone forward this email to you? Sign up here.

Looking for more networking opportunities?

Join The Atlas, Route Fifty's Community, to connect with your peers across the country. Access state and local government roundtables, resources, case studies, and more.

Sponsored by Carahsoft

State and Local Leaders: The Drive to Modernize Cybersecurity

Together with their industry partners, agencies are embracing new ways to transform security and strengthen Americans' trust and engagement with government. In our new state and local government e-book, experts discuss how to protect data, improve election security, enhance network visibility and take a more holistic approach to cybersecurity.

Access Now!

FCC to vote on routing 988, crisis callers directly to local resources

By Edward Graham | Florida is one of a dozen states that have yet to issue a single RFP using federal dollars to construct EV charging stations. Gas stations see the chargers as an avenue to compete with local power companies.

Why Buc-ee's is picking a fight with Gov. Ron DeSantis

By Daniel C. Vock | A stopgap funding bill is heading to Biden's desk as Congress staves off a pre-election shutdown.

Want more news?

Looking for more state and local insights? Check out our Tuesday Digest, featuring both public and private sector insights each week.

Thanks for reading!

To make sure we hit your inbox weekly, add news@e.routefifty.com to your contacts.

ROUTE FIFTY // CONTACT US // PRIVACY POLICY // UNSUBSCRIBE

This message was sent from Route Fifty to mayor@cityofclemson.org. Note: It may take our system up to two business days to process your unsubscribe request and during that time you may receive one or two more newsletters. Thank you for reading Route Fifty Today.

GovExec, 600 New Hampshire Avenue NW, Washington, DC 20037